

Press release

Oberglatt, October 23, 2007

Quick and Reliable

Maag Pump Systems is expanding its reachability and the range of services offered by its After Sales Service.

Beside classic products like spare parts, repair and installation service, the company offers in addition engineering support through the phone.

The offering of replacement products and products which increase performance assist the customer in making existing systems fit for future requirements.

The range of services is supplemented by a training programme which can be adapted to specific requirements.

At Maag Pump Systems, a quick and reliable service comes first. Maag Pump Systems constantly endeavours to expand the offerings thereby satisfying the customer: "We want to assist our customers in managing their daily work to the best of our knowledge and with solutions matched to their requirements" emphasises Eugen Pfiffner, After Sales Director Maag Pump Systems, in his statement. "We are very much open to criticism since this is the foundation of all improvements". The service team from Maag Pump Systems shall be pleased to accept any challenge and is welcoming you to contact us.

